FRENCH & INDIAN WAR 250TH ANNIVERSARY
COMMEMORATION COMMISSION SETS 2008 EVENTS

Albany, New York—Visitors and area residents alike will have many opportunities to witness battle reenactments, learn about 18th century life and explore local history this year at family-friendly events planned throughout New York State. The French and Indian War 250th Anniversary Commemoration Commission is pleased to announce a comprehensive listing of events scheduled in 2008.

Last year's French and Indian War 250th Anniversary commemorative events schedule was named one of the American Bus Association's Top 100 Events in North America and proved a 3.5 million dollar economic boon for the local upstate economy.

"We expect to build on last year's success in 2008. There are so many exciting events planned, including this year's signature event, a Grand Encampment at Fort Ticonderoga," says Sean Kelleher, Commission Marketing Chairman. "That event alone is expected to draw about 2,000 reenactors and 20,000 visitors."

The Grand Encampment at Fort Ticonderoga will be held June 24 to July 8. Highlights of this event will include a performance by Les Petits Chanteurs Boys Choir from Montreal in the New Mars Education Center as well as a Parade of Arms and skirmish in Ticonderoga Village, battle reenactments, a Day of Scots to commemorate the loss of British troops and French Victory Day.

The 2008 French and Indian War 250th Anniversary Commemoration schedule includes the following events. Please plan ahead as some events require pre-registration.

July 12

250th Commemoration of the deaths of Lord Howe and Major Duncan Campbell and the defeat of Abercromby's Army.

Join with reenactors as we remember the ultimate sacrifices given by the defenders of this country 250 years ago! In late June 1758 approximately 16,000 British troops marched out of Fort Edward heading northward to attack the French at Fort Carillon (Ticonderoga). July 6th at Lake George the majority of the troops continued their journey up the lake in a flotilla of more than 1,000 boats. Two days later they engaged the 3,500 French troops, but the British were resoundingly defeated with thousands dead or wounded. Among the dead was Lord Augustus Howe, General Abercromby's second in command, who was much loved by his troops. His remains were returned to Fort Edward where they were then shipped down the Hudson to Albany where he was interred in St.

Peter's Episcopal Church. Major Duncan Campbell of the 42nd Regiment of the Black Watch from Scotland was among the wounded sent to the hospital on Rogers Island at Fort Edward where he died on July 17 from wounds received at Ticonderoga. Today Campbell's remains are interred in Union Cemetery on Route 4 in Fort Edward beneath the oldest headstone in Washington County.

Because activities are coordinated among many groups and volunteers, times are approximate. It is suggested that visitors should check the event Web site or contact the event to confirm the information.

Fought from 1754 to 1763, the French and Indian War was the precursor to the fight for America's independence. The conflict, now gaining recognition for its important role in shaping this country and Canada, was a fierce contest between the British and American colonists against the French and Canadians, with Native American allies on both sides. The strategic waterways in New York—the Hudson-Champlain corridor, the Mohawk Valley and the St. Lawrence—made the state a focal point of the war.
